

It is best not to oil the wheel until after all the wooden parts have been duly stained and finished. A dark walnut stain wiped on will give an antique appearance to the wheel but light red mahogany or teak stain is also popular. A clear satin gloss finish may then be brushed on and the wheel will look perfect. Alternatively you may wish to rub linseed oil on as a finish - this gives a beautiful soft appearance. Once the finish is on you can lubricate the wheel without fear of staining the wood and we feel sure you will be very content with your Sleeping Beauty.
